

Katrina Xander

Access Point Consulting

Katrina Xander's journey to CISO began with 15 years in higher education administration, where she developed strong leadership, communication, and strategic planning skills. She transitioned into cybersecurity seven years ago, starting with security compliance work for a global reinsurance company. As the CISO at Access Point Consulting, Katrina established a SOCaaS team providing customized, best-in-class security solutions across industries. She is committed to enhancing security, driving innovation, and fostering diversity in cybersecurity, advocating for more female role models and mentors to inspire women in STEM.